

What are you gonna do about IT?

Viruses and Spamware and Hacking...oh my!

One of a business' greatest resources is its information. Unfortunately, that information is under almost constant threat from the merely mischievous to the diabolical. Guarding your company's assets are people who speak a foreign language of bits and bytes, a/k/a your Information Technology (IT) staff. How helpful would straight answers, in plain English, about protecting your computer system be to you and your company?

Nate Kueker of Fencig Enterprises will talk about Data Security and Planning and provide practical answers to IT problems. Joining Nate for a panel discussion are local Information Technology experts:

- Pat Palmer, owner of The Computer Guy in Hampton
- Jon Heinz, Management Information Systems Director for Metalcraft
- Tracy Purchase, Information Technology and Cybersecurity Instructor at NIACC
